We sincerely appreciate your contributions, Johnny! I want to emphasize that our vast audience of thankful, licensed, and vaccinated viewers truly finds immense enjoyment in your segments titled "Dialing for Ahrimanic Bitcoins to Pay My Utility Bill!" which air at the beginning of our newscast. Your unique approach and engaging content resonate deeply with our viewers, making those moments a highlight of their day. Numerous viewers have expressed their enthusiasm through our AOL Email

Account, urging us to consider introducing a new segment titled "Pay My Grocery Bill!" in future episodes.

This idea has gained significant traction and popularity among our audience, highlighting a desire for fresh and engaging content that resonates with their everyday lives.

By exploring this concept, we could not only enhance viewer engagement but also tap into a relatable theme that many can connect with, ultimately enriching the overall experience of our show.

What do you think, John? We'd love to hear your thoughts!
Don't go anywhere, as we'll return shortly after these important public service announcements from Ahriman.
Thank you for joining us once more!
In today's political landscape, Ahriman's Secretary of Social Redesign of Transportation and Demobilization, known as Secretary "Iisme" (previously recognized as Mayor Pete), conducted a press conference to commemorate the rededication of the Washington Moment.

This monument had been dismantled during the fleeting Antifa Insurrection, which aimed to reinstate Little Joey Buyhim as the Supreme Ruler.
Under the exceptional guidance of Secretary Iisme, the monument has been meticulously restored and is now being dedicated to what he described as a lost generation of -binary jazz musicians who suffered at the hands of discriminatory record labels and their profit-driven managers during the late 1950s.

Secretary Iisme has recently garnered attention by announcing his intention to introduce new legislation aimed at renaming all infrastructure associated with Heaven, including notable routes like the "Highway to Heaven" and "The Stairway to Heaven."
This initiative is rooted in the belief that these names symbolize a fundamental aspect of the pervasive issue of systemic blight, which, in their very titles, covertly perpetuates the most insidious forms of universal WS Transportation Racism.

By advocating for this change, Iisme seeks to confront and dismantle the underlying prejudices embedded in our transportation systems, promoting a more equitable and just society for all.

Secretary Iisme first gained public attention prior to his recent pronoun change during his tenure as Transportation Secretary under the previous administration, led by the controversial figure often referred to as the Big Guy. During this time, he took significant actions that resulted in the dismantling of nearly two-thirds of the nation’s Interstate Highway System.

Iisme argued that these highways were originally constructed as part of a nefarious scheme by a predominantly white establishment, designed to facilitate the movement of certain groups across the country while simultaneously contributing to environmental degradation in marginalized communities.

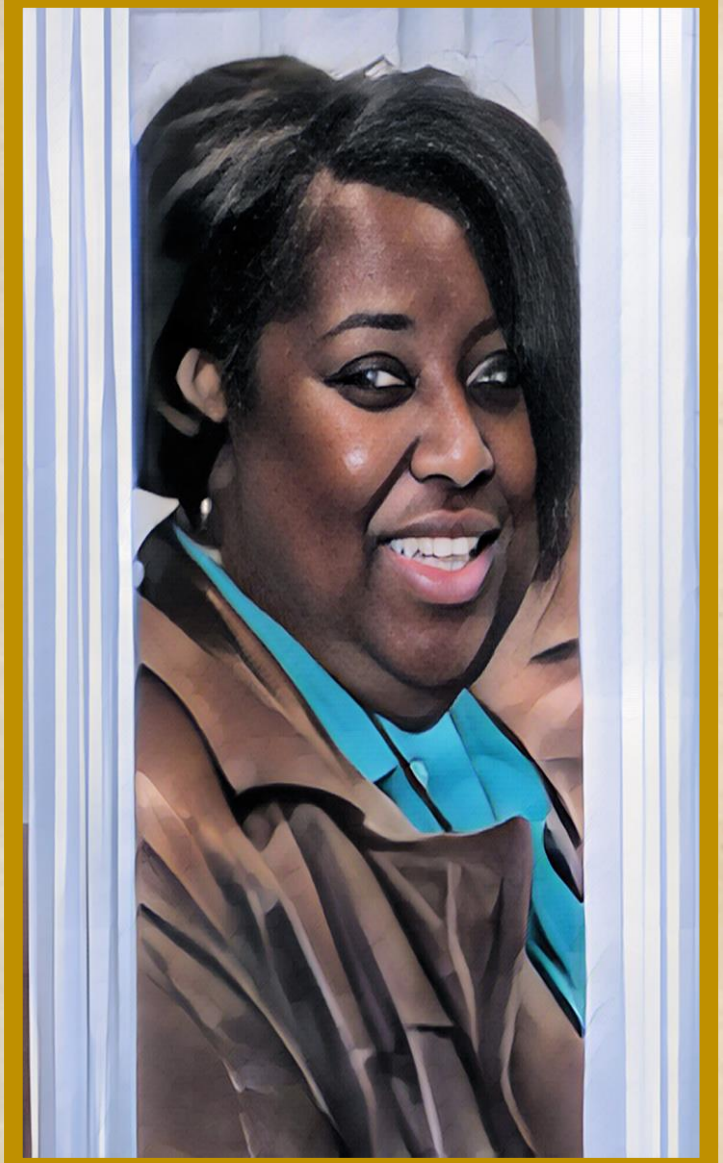
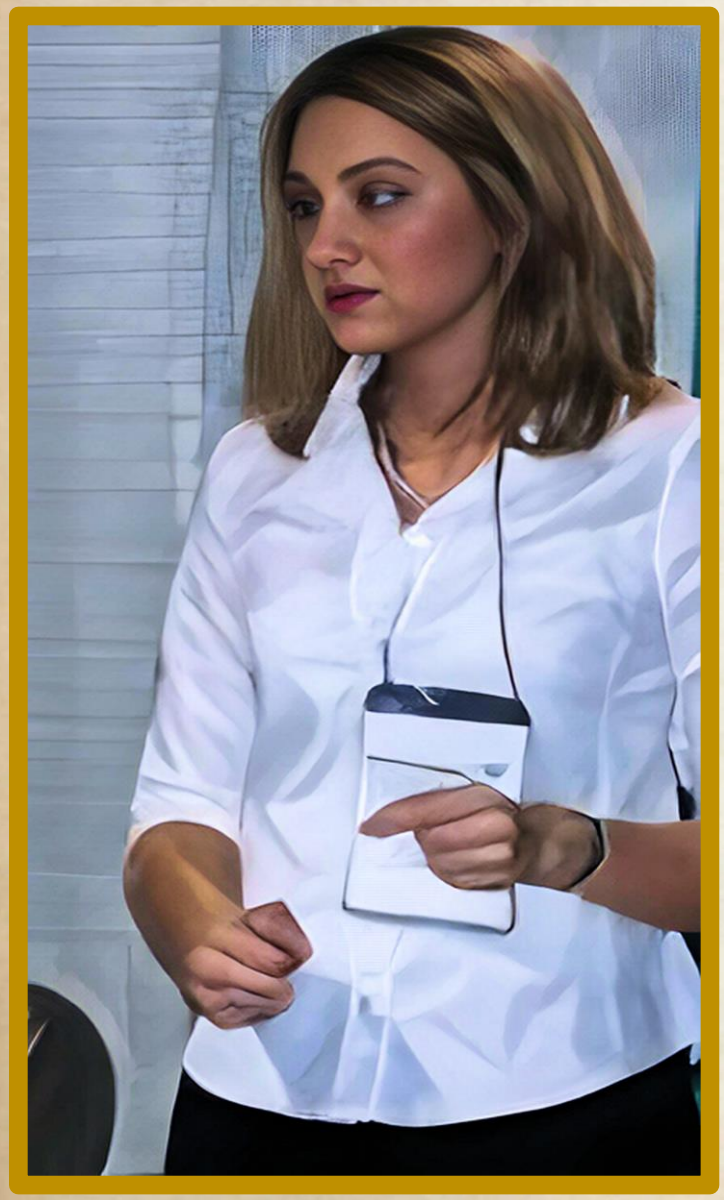
He pointed to the historical context, claiming that the infrastructure was built to benefit affluent white individuals, particularly those associated with the oil and gas industries, while neglecting the needs of communities of color.

Iisme's presentation





included a compelling PowerPoint that traced the financial roots of the railroad expansion back to a small group of wealthy white men who profited from the labor of marginalized populations, including undocumented workers and the Irish, who were historically viewed as inferior.

This narrative of systemic inequity and historical injustice served to highlight the ongoing challenges faced by underrepresented groups in the transportation sector and beyond.

During this segment of the event, a number of individuals were apprehended and escorted away by the vigilant officers of the Homeland/Secret Service (HSS) Thought Police.
This action was prompted by their failure to pass the "Evil Thought" Scanners, which detected their mental registration of inappropriate thoughts–an issue exacerbated by the recent implementation of the Googly-Microsofty brain Nano-chip implants technology. This technology was mandated by the Global {Western Nations} Corporate Congress as part of the newly revised bi-monthly virus vaccine law, which they insisted was essential for all responsible citizens.

The situation escalated dramatically when a notorious member of the Southern Christian Federation, or perhaps an investigative journalist from Texas, attempted to incite the crowd with a disruptive chant of "POTHOLE Pete" during Secretary Iisme's speech. The HSS Officers quickly intervened, effectively dispersing the gathering of spectators and restoring order amidst the chaos that had erupted at the press conference.

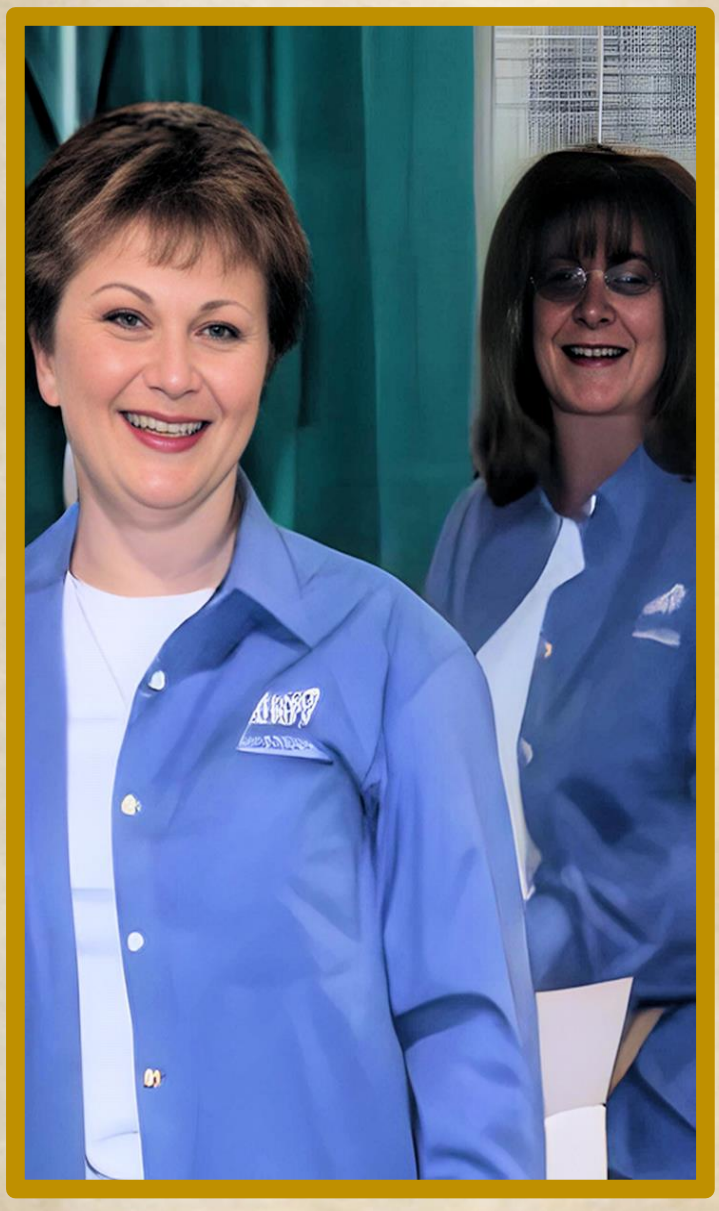
Secretary Iisme was successfully evacuated to a nearby helicopter, where he was reported to be visibly shaken yet unharmed.

He was then transported to a secure location within Baltimore's prestigious Riverfront Gated Community, known for its exclusivity and safety.



Updates on this developing story will be provided as more information emerges. We are thrilled to bring you back to this week's captivating episode, featuring a remarkable three-time recipient of the prestigious Lizzy Warren's "I Was Once Native American Myself" Global Victim Award. Join us as we dive back into our ongoing program, "Pronouns are WE!" Podcast, where engaging discussions and enlightening perspectives await.

DAY ONE OF THE CONVENTION

In a stunning development at the 2025 Peace and Harmony Convention, state media outlet CNNister has uncovered an exclusive story revealing that the Late, great MAGA King has been denied a transfer to the FEMA Re-Education Center, a facility previously utilized by Martha Stewart during her insider trading sentence. This refusal came after the MAGA King declared his new identity as the Great MAGA

Queen and formally requested the transfer from Judge DeHunter Buyhim, the recently appointed superior judge in the Southern District of New York.
The implications of this decision are profound, raising questions about identity, justice, and the evolving landscape of political narratives in America.
In his ruling, Judge Buyhim firmly rejected the MAGA King’s appeal, emphasizing that individuals who commit crimes must face the consequences and cannot escape the reach of the law.

He articulated a vivid metaphor, suggesting that no one, regardless of their status, should be exempt from accountability, and that the repercussions of their actions could lead to a humbling experience, akin to being dominated by a figure like Big Bubba. This statement underscores the principle that justice applies equally to all, reinforcing the idea that power and privilege do not shield one from the legal system's scrutiny.
State Media, CNNister, is set to air a compelling panel discussion later this hour, focusing on the recent actions of the late, illustrious MAGA King regarding his controversial claims of stolen trans or bio-gender identity.

The conversation will delve into the implications of these assertions, particularly in light of the new Ministry of Bio-Gender Compliance's formal request to the Justice Department.
This request seeks the appointment of a special prosecutor to determine whether the late MAGA King has potentially engaged in serious criminal activity by misrepresenting his gender identity. This discussion promises to shed light on the intersection of identity politics and legal accountability, making it a must-watch for anyone interested in the evolving landscape of gender rights and political integrity.

{Attention everyone! The Ministry of Correct Education is excited to announce a significant update regarding the new Commissar Harris Education Commission.
They will soon unveil an innovative civics curriculum titled “Be Happy Knowing That the State Has Your Back, Regardless of What Your Parents Say.” This program is designed to empower students by reinforcing the idea that the state is a reliable ally in their educational journey, offering support and guidance that transcends traditional parental influence. Embrace this opportunity to engage with a curriculum that prioritizes state-backed assurance and fosters a positive outlook on civic responsibility and community involvement.

Stay tuned for more details on how this initiative will shape the future of education!}
We are thrilled to kick off day one of the Peace and Harmony Convention!
The atmosphere is electric as festivities are already underway, and anticipation builds for the grand opening session parade.
This spectacular event will be led by the pioneering members of the Drag Queens for Victory in Ukraine, who will make a striking entrance in the latest generation of Electric Tanks.

These impressive vehicles are akin to the cutting-edge “Wonder Weapon” recently provided to the valiant forces of the Ukrainian Exile Government, now operating from their newly established base camp just outside Thames Ditton in London.
Unfortunately, the opening ceremony faced an unexpected setback due to a delay caused by military officials who did not provide sufficiently long extension cords for the highly anticipated electric tanks, a groundbreaking innovation developed by the Mattel Toy Company. This oversight not only disrupted the schedule but also cast a shadow over the event, as attendees eagerly awaited the unveiling of these remarkable machines. The failure to ensure proper equipment (Electrical extension cables) highlights the importance of thorough planning and coordination in executing such significant showcases, especially when introducing cutting-edge technology to the public.

Colonel MacGyver, the recently appointed liaison officer from the Pentagon attending the convention, assured us that the situation was simply an oversight and that American citizens need not worry. He emphasized that the actual battle models are outfitted with a reliable, battle-tested “D” Cell battery pack, specifically designed to perform effectively even on overcast days.

This reassurance highlights the commitment to ensuring that our defense systems remain operational under various conditions, alleviating any concerns about reliability during critical moments.

The latest generation of American Battle Tanks is truly remarkable, boasting a zero-carbon footprint– provided we overlook the emissions associated with the Chinese companies that produce these formidable machines under a contract brokered by Vice-Premier Comrade Waltz.
Additionally, these tanks feature the seamless integration of high-definition, 6K PlayStation controllers, allowing for immersive after-action entertainment.

It has been suggested that there is no better way to unwind after a grueling day of combat than to relax with a microwaved bug pizza, a refreshing maple-flavored soy tea, and an engaging session of PlayStation Mortal Kombat. Colonel MacGyver promptly addressed this misconception by asserting that viewing the PlayStation version of Mortal Kombat as a valuable after-action review for military personnel is misguided.

He emphasized that extensive Pentagon research indicates that not only is this game, along with other war-themed video games, an effective training resource, but it also provides unique insights that can enhance the preparedness and strategic thinking of field troops. This evening, we will delve into the inaugural speeches of the night, featuring Billy D'Gated, who is anticipated to unveil a groundbreaking advancement from his company, Acme Heavy Industries. He is set to introduce a new generation of nanobot technology designed to supplant the recently banned vaccine nanobots, which were prohibited by the FDA following numerous reports of their unintended side effect: the spontaneous creation of flash dance mobs in cities across America.

This development promises to revolutionize the field and address the concerns that led to the original nanobots' withdrawal, making it a pivotal moment in both technology and public health.
We attempted to contact the newly appointed FDA minister for comments, but they declined to provide any information, citing their involvement in an ongoing FBI investigation. This inquiry is focused on clarifying the extent of the late MAGA King's alleged participation in the hacking of Acme Nanobot Brain Monitoring Systems, a matter that remains under scrutiny.

A prominent transhumanist and representative for Acme Heavy Industries has suggested that Mister D'Gated's upcoming address will revolutionize the Peace and Harmony Government's strategy in addressing their innovative initiative that merges artificial intelligence with the imperative to combat disruptive elements, such as the banned Jesuits of Truth.

These groups threaten to taint the officially sanctioned thought patterns deemed appropriate for civilized society by introducing unwelcome ideas rooted in common sense and the potentially corruptible nature of truth.

By leveraging this cutting-edge technology and integrating it with personal social credit scores, the government aims to ensure a more controlled and compliant populace, effectively safeguarding the integrity of its ideological framework.

Prepare yourself for an evening filled with heightened anticipation as a captivating array of speeches will be delivered from the esteemed Peace and Harmony podium.
This is an event you won't want to miss, so keep your ears open and stay engaged!

DAY TWO OF THE CONVENTION

Following the remarkable event last night featuring some of the most esteemed WOOKIES speakers, the atmosphere was electric with enthusiastic applause from the dedicated members of the Peace and Harmony Commission, alongside the passionate advocates of the Teacher's Defense League. The evening reached an emotional peak with a heartfelt tribute delivered by vice-premier, comrade Waltz, honoring the late Chairman Mao, the former CEO of China Inc.

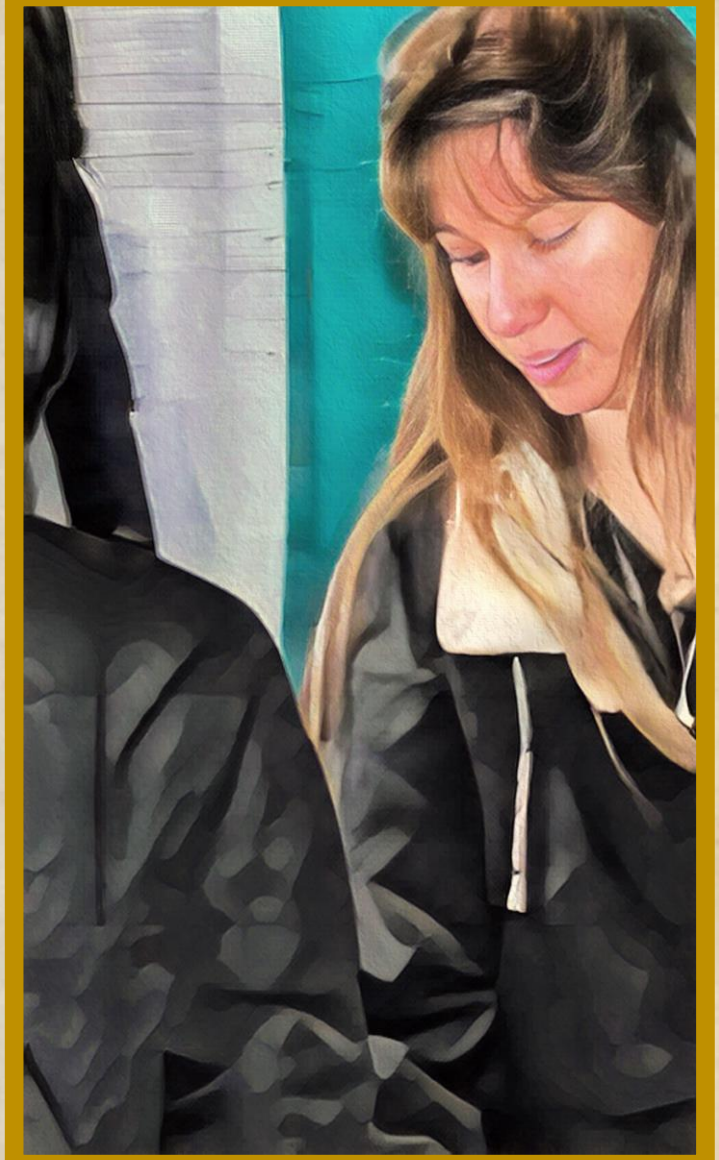
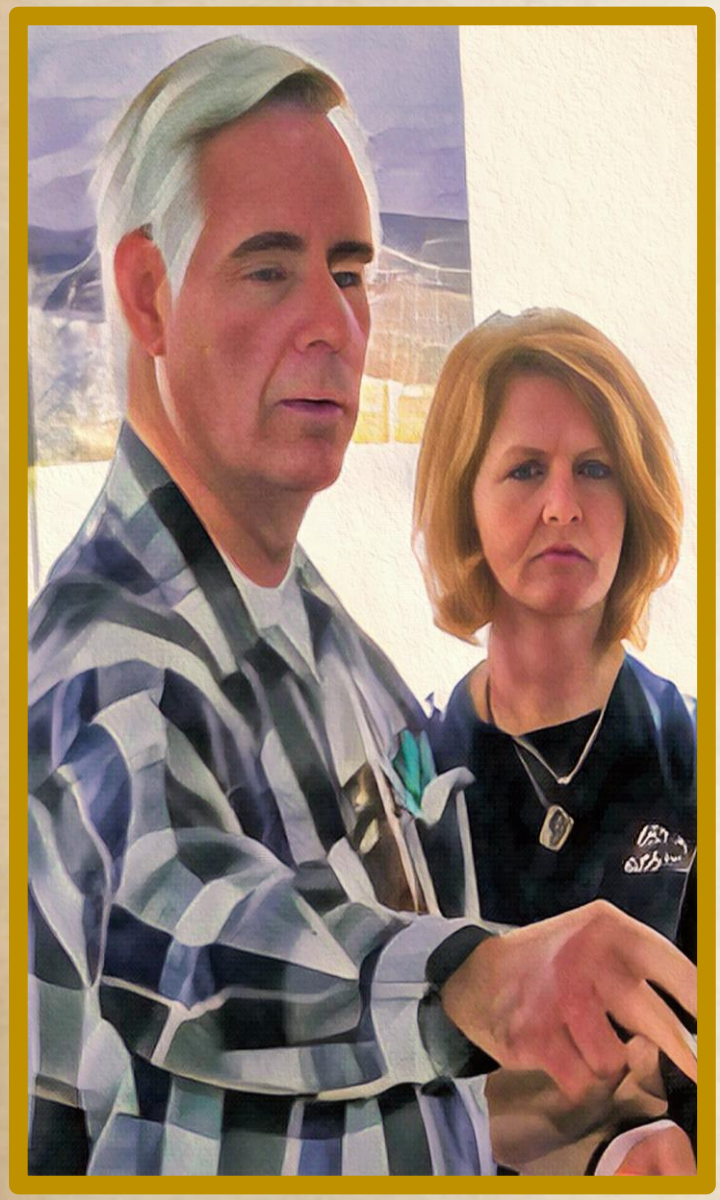
His poignant interpretations of Mao's "Little Red Book" resonated deeply with the audience, leaving many visibly moved and wiping away tears, as the legacy of Mao's words echoed throughout the gathering.
In a chaotic scene, local troublemakers, along with what are believed to be GOF Zombie Samples transported from Ward 5 and several members of the banned





Jesuits of Truth, sought to disrupt the convention at Grant Park.
They vocally condemned the attendees, labeling them as “Merchants of the Untruth,” while attempting to orchestrate a Congo Dance March in front of the convention center.
In response, the governor swiftly deployed the newly formed Antifa Militia to quell the unrest, with orders to “bust heads of these Truth Nuts.”
Meanwhile, a representative from Homeland Security’s Ministry of Truth declared that the act of “Congo Dancing” had been classified as a hate crime, arguing that it perpetuated the offensive stereotype that the Congolese people were akin to drunken white hooligans, thereby unjustly suggesting that they lacked the ability to dance. The commander of the local Antifa Militia declined to provide any information regarding the number of protesters who were hospitalized due to the violence that erupted in Grant Park. Meanwhile, local journalists found themselves unable to verify the situation, as they had been transported back to the convention center following the evening's premier Vegan Barbecue, coinciding almost perfectly with the arrival of the Antifa Militia at Grant Park.

This lack of communication and the timing of events raises significant questions about the unfolding chaos and the accountability of those involved.

Early this morning, a significant operation unfolded as SWAT members from the Ministry of Truth conducted a raid on the clandestine Jesuits of Truth's Palmdale Club House, an event that has drawn considerable attention.

Accompanying them was our dedicated CNNister News Team, embedded with the Homeland's SWAT units, providing an exclusive look into the unfolding situation.

This high-stakes intervention highlights the ongoing efforts to address unlawful activities and maintain order, showcasing the commitment of law enforcement to uphold justice in the face of defiance.

The presence of our news team not only captures the intensity of the moment but also ensures that the public remains informed about critical developments in this unfolding narrative.

A confidential source from the SWAT Team revealed to our News Team that their findings were astonishing, uncovering one of the most extensive private collections of prohibited literature. This remarkable assortment included works from notable figures such as the late Jim Marrs, Hunter Thompson, and Graham Hancock.

Additionally, they stumbled upon an impressive video library featuring banned episodes of popular shows hosted by Tucker Carlson and Joe Rogan, highlighting a significant cultural moment that raises questions about censorship and the freedom of expression.

The extensive and alarming collection of dangerous substances that poses a significant risk to our civilized society, revealing realities that clash with the sanctioned narratives propagated by the so-called "Fact Checkers" of the Official Ministry of Truth, has been effectively eliminated before it had the chance to spark a widespread disturbance of unsettling truths within our community.

At the convention center, attendees were delighted by an exhilarating open-air concert, accompanied by a lively "Coconut Tree" Dance Off, both generously sponsored by NPR.

The event was brought to life by a dynamic group of skilled DJs from NPR, who expertly curated the atmosphere, ensuring that everyone was engaged and entertained.

The combination of infectious music and spirited dance created an unforgettable experience, drawing in crowds eager to participate and enjoy the vibrant energy of the occasion.

We eagerly anticipate the opportunity to hear Commissar Harris unveil her innovative theme programming later this evening, centered around the thought-provoking concept of “What can be, unburdened by what has been.”

This intriguing perspective promises to inspire fresh ideas and open up new possibilities, encouraging us to envision a future free from the constraints of past experiences. Whispers circulating throughout the convention center suggest that her upcoming theme will feature the renowned bongo drummer, Little Ricky, who is set to infuse a vibrant beatnik rhythm into her mantras. According to aides of the Commissar, this collaboration is expected to evoke the essence of E.E. Cummings, perfectly aligning with the new era of Peace and Harmony that the Peace and Harmony Press Corps is championing. This initiative is part of her highly anticipated national tour, titled “Don’t Worry! Be Happy!” National Revival, which aims to inspire and uplift audiences across the country.

Following the Commissar's appearance, our committee's spokesmodel will join us to reveal the exciting details regarding tour dates, locations, and ticket availability.
This announcement promises to be a highlight, providing fans with the information they need to secure their spots for what is sure to be an unforgettable experience.
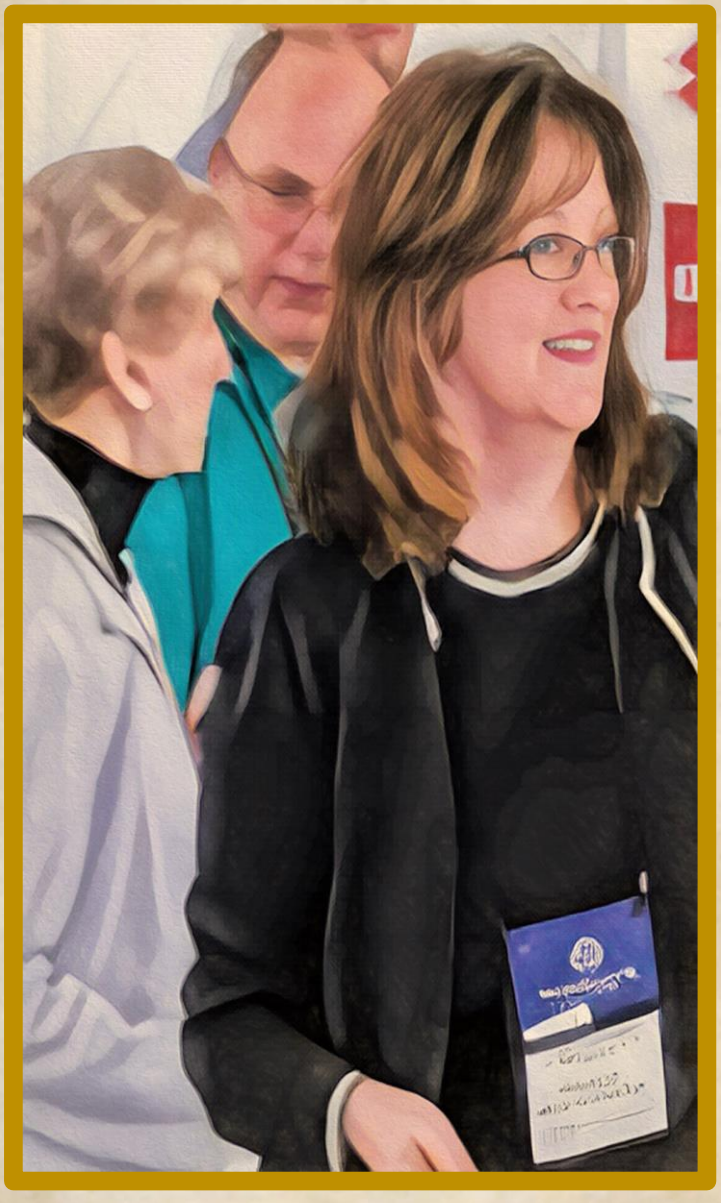
In a noteworthy development on the national stage, the NSH, in collaboration with the formidable representative from the CDC, has successfully dispelled a popular myth perpetuated by the Jesuit of Truth.

This urban legend claimed that middle-aged women who own dogs experience five times more happiness than their professional counterparts who prefer cats.
The findings challenge this stereotype, encouraging a more nuanced understanding of happiness across different lifestyles.



During a recent press conference held at the CDC Headquarters in Atlanta, officials presented a compelling fact-check that directly challenges a widely circulated theory propagated by certain disruptive factions associated with the banned Palmdale Chapter of the Jesuits of Truth.
This theory, which has gained traction on social media, suggests that women who own dogs experience greater happiness compared to their middle-aged professional counterparts who prefer cats. However, the CDC's findings indicate that the mere presence of dogs does not inherently lead to increased happiness, debunking the notion that pet ownership alone is a determinant of well-being. This critical information serves to clarify misconceptions and emphasizes the complexity of happiness, urging individuals to consider a broader perspective on what truly contributes to a fulfilling life.

The Women with Dogs

Foundation promptly released a comprehensive white paper endorsing the Jesuit of Truth's assertions regarding the happiness of women who own dogs.

In a bold move, the foundation's spokesperson, Ms. Paris Hilton, raised concerns about the new government's allocation of taxpayer money to disprove what many consider to be a mere urban myth.

This initiative not only highlights the foundation's commitment to advocating for the positive impact of canine companionship on women's well-being but also calls into question the priorities of public spending in addressing issues that resonate deeply with many.

We are excited to announce that the renowned Ms. Febee Carpenter, celebrated for her captivating portrayal of the "Cat Woman" in this summer's highly successful remake of the iconic Batman series, will be joining us. This latest installment not only revitalizes the beloved franchise but also embraces themes of diversity and inclusion, making it a significant cultural milestone.

Ms. Carpenter will lend her valuable insights on the ongoing "Women with Dogs" controversy, offering a unique perspective that is sure to enrich the discussion.
Her expertise and experience in navigating complex narratives in the entertainment industry will provide a compelling lens through which to examine this pressing issue.
At this moment, we are thrilled to dive into another exhilarating episode of “Dialing for Ahrimanic Bitcoins to Pay My Utility Bill!” Join Johnny as he embarks on this captivating journey, ready to explore the intriguing world of cryptocurrency and its practical applications. The stage is set, and we can’t wait to see what Johnny has in store for us today!
